BY: CIARRA WITT

Kent was founded in 1910. Kent Normal School is named after William Kent, who donates his farm land to build the new training school. In 1929 Kent changed from being Kent State Normal College to Kent State College when Kent was approved to award degrees in arts and sciences changing it to a liberal arts college. Weirdly enough, Kent's first classes were not even in Kent. They had an extension program that went to 20 centers in Northeast Ohio.

What Kent is most nationally famous for is the May 4th, 1970 shooting. Around 500 students were protesting the expansion of the Vietnam War to Cambodia, and Nixon previously promising to end the war. Around one in the afternoon when police fired on the protesters. Nine shot, four killed. The four that were killed names were Allison Krause, Jeffrey Miller, Sandra Scheuer and William Schroeder. In response many universities, colleges, and high schools closed across the United States because of a student strike of 4 million students. When this happened it really made the public opinion on our role in Vietnam overall stronger in a negative way.
