

Navy IT Career Profile

A Navy IT is expected to be proficient with math and to have a strong understanding of the technical field. Only a high school diploma is required for this job and promotion opportunities are regularly available but highly competitive, so one will need to work hard to advance. Navy ITs maintain communication networks and perform computer diagnostics and right coding for various computer programs.

Work Cited

Navy IT description paper