

Police Equipment

9mm Police Gun

Just about 65% of police departments choose to have this as their main sidearm because of its light weight and low maintenance.

Police Shotgun

Most police cars come with a 12 gage shotgun, which is used in close quarters to take down heavily armed criminals.

Bulletproof Vest

The bulletproof vest is the most important piece of equipment that a police office can have. Most officers like to wear the soft vest which is less noticeable but not as protective.

Police Duty Belt

The police duty belt carries most of the officers daily gear. They can weigh up to ten pounds when used. The items in the belt are handcuffs, pistol, extra mags, taser, mace/OC pepper spray, flashlights, handheld taser, batons, knife, keys, basic first aid, and disposable gloves.

Police Handcuffs

Handcuffs are the most used item of the officers equipment. They are used to subdue uncooperative or dangerous criminals, all cops have two to three handcuffs on them in any given time.

Police Taser Gun

Tasers are a less lethal way of subduing a criminal and it has a range of up to twenty feet, but it has a drawback which is has it has the tendency to malfunction.

Police Baton

The police baton is one of the oldest pieces of equipment used by cops. They can use it to break down doors, break glass, and to control and disperse non-compliant suspects.
