

Guided tour to University of Cincinnati

I went onto a tour of the University of Cincinnati and I ended up loving it. It fit my thoughts of the college experience completely. I believe going there would be my best choice in picking a college. There are so many different living options at UC. You can live in apartments along with multiple different types of dorms on campus. There are also so many different types of market places, kiosks and restaurants to eat at. Some are open 24/7 if I would ever need anything late at night. I love the size of the campus and how many new people and friends I could meet every day. I've learned a lot of important people have gone or taught at the University of Cincinnati. I also learned that some of these people invented things we use today while at UC. I could definitely see myself living my life after my senior year at the University of Cincinnati.
