

Kaitlyn- Tools Used in the Delivery Room

The Hemostat- This clamp is used for containing any type of bleed, holding sutures and, most important, clamping the umbilical cord for cutting.

Forceps- These are generally used to try and shift baby's position, and may also help guide the head out.

Amniotic Hook- This long crochet-like hook is used in the early stages of delivery to break your water if it hasn't yet happened naturally.

