

National Guard

“In 10 weeks, you’ll be physically and mentally stronger than you’ve ever been, and ready to join the team that protects America”. NationalGuard.com

“The National guard goes back to 1636, Citizen-Soldiers formed militias to defend communities and our country. And for 378 years, the National Guard has always done things to tradition.”

To join the National Guard without prior service, you must meet these mandatory requirements:

- Be between the ages of 17 and 35
- Be a U.S. citizen or permanent resident
- Be a at least a junior in high school, or have a high school diploma or a GED certificate
- Meet medical, physical and moral requirements

To sum the National Guard up, what they do is more for people that want to have military background and want to serve their country. What this allows is for people to pursue a civil life while maintaining being a part of a military group. I want to be apart of the national guard because i can get free college and still make money while i chose my path of life. The only downside is you do have to take boot camp for 10 weeks, also you meet with your group one weekend a month, and a two week training period once a year.

Work Cited

The National Guard, December 14 2016, accessed December 14
2016, <https://www.nationalguard.com/>