

Visiting Miami University

One of my first views of Miami University that morning.

The Beta Bells, an impressive bell tower donated by one of the Greek Life houses.

One of my final views of Miami as we left that evening.

A shot of a field from inside one of the buildings.

The University sign, which greets everyone coming in and out of campus.

A shot of the large area near the Miami seal.

A shot of Brandon Hall, a very important building on campus.

And finally, a shot of the Farmer's School of Business, one of the places I'm considering going to so I can get a minor in business.